THIS IS WAR

This Week - 07/14/2010

Sharing festival grounds with over 200 artists in just one weekend, Thirty Seconds To Mars settled in Scotland to rock T in the Park 2010 Saturday night, immediately heading to Ireland for Sunday's Oxegen Festival. Just over three weeks worth of touring abroad are left for Mars this summer, as the Band now pauses for a rest before heading down under for a round of shows in Australia at the end of the month.

Don't forget! Mars will be returning to the United States this September before heading back to Europe just in time for winter. Visit the Official Tour Page for all currently available ticket information regarding recently announced dates, and don't forget to check out the Golden Ticket To Mars Page for information on any available packages.

Weekly Picks From the Band

Book of the Week

The Picture of Dorian Gray is the only published novel by author Oscar Wilde, and tells the story of a young man named Dorian Gray, the subject of a painting by artist Basil Hallward. Realizing that one day his beauty will fade, Dorian expresses his desire to sell his soul to ensure the portrait Basil has painted would age rather than himself. Dorian's wish is fulfilled, plunging him into debauched acts, the portrait serving as a reminder of the effect each act has upon his soul—each sin displayed as a disfigurement of his form, or through a sign of aging.

Movie of the Week

Enter the Void is a French film directed by Gaspar Noé. The film focuses on Oscar, a young drug dealer in Tokyo who gets killed and watches over his sister as a ghost. The film premiered at the 2009 Cannes Film Festival and after several recuts it was released theatrically in France almost one year later.

Album of the Week

New Politics is a rock band from Copenhagen, Denmark. It is made up of David Boyd, Søren Hansen, and Poul Amaliel. They are probably most famous for their debut single, Yeah Yeah Yeah, featured on their self-titled debut album available July 13.

Restaurant of the Week

Located just a five minute walk from the center of the Design Museum and the Church of St. John's doorstep, the Juuri Kitchen & Bar is a fresh, innovative approach to traditional Finnish food.
